

ABSTRACT

An Internet Website or other network-based service provides a user several choices as to additional sources of information. The user may select from among the sources of information while viewing an advertisement or other content displayed by the Internet website or other network-based service.